Resume:

My professional resume highlights my community involvement. I served as a member of the governor's cabinet as head of a state environmental agency in the Carlson administration. The focus of my professional work, both as a legislative lobbyist and my work for the governor was to prevent problems before they happened. I continue to be involved in public policy issues, most recently in access to affordable health care.

I graduated from Macalester College in 1980 with degrees in Religious Studies and Economics. I have studied art at MCAD, Macalester and the University of Minnesota, the Grand Marais Art Colony and workshops and master classes with William Murray, Jantje Visscher, Katie Lee, Margaret Saul and others.
